Using the latest tools and processes to protect against supply chain risk.

Increasing your competitive advantage is crucial in today's global economy. Often the only true differentiating factors are time to market or brand reputation. That's where Plexus can help. We have the tools and processes in place to help mitigate any potential risks and strengthen your supply chain.

ALARM™

Our proprietary software, ALARM™, is used for identifying and mitigating supply chain risk. It provides end-to-end visibility into current risks and can predict future supply base disruptions. Further, it includes internal and external threat analysis to provide a comprehensive picture.

Trade Compliance Automations

Our teams have access to a suite of tools and services for global trade, supply chain visibility and import and export compliance. These cloud-based softwares include Amber Road, Macrolynk and Integration Point.

Excess and Obsolete Management

When it comes to excess and obsolete visibility, dedicated material focus teams are equipped with the mitigation tools needed to help optimize your planning, demand forecasting and replenishment processes, thus ensuring minimal disruption to your inventory anywhere around the world.

Counterfeit Protection

We use zero tolerance policies to shield against the risks associated with counterfeit products entering our supply chain. These policies include broker elimination, detection, prevention and removal, as well as mitigation policies.

Government Affairs

We proactively track government trends that may impact our supply chain. Our teams continuously track bills in federal and state legislatures, on topics such as labor, trade, compliance, privacy, taxation and consumer protection.

Transition Management

We'll manage the complexity and uncertainty involved in any transition. Whether ramping up production or moving manufacturing operations, we'll help set expectations and enable strategic objectives to be met. We work closely with our transition teams to ensure a successful change.

Market Alerts

Our real-time proprietary software - Market Alerts - is used to communicate internally whenever a significant risk event occurs. This allows us to identify those risks which may pose detrimental to Plexus, our suppliers or our customers, and find the solution to avoid them.

Managing Compliance

Plexus is committed to protecting your brand and reputation by deploying a comprehensive suite of management systems covering compliance. We understand complex, regulatory requirements and can help develop customized solutions for your needs.

Digital Supply Chain

Digitalization makes the supply chain more agile, resilient and customer-focused. At Plexus, we employ business intelligence and advanced analytics to improve performance and manage the extended supply chain. We will provide you with data driven, predictive and prescriptive solutions that are highly accessible and visible.

"This is to extend our sincere appreciation to your team for the great support provided to GE Healthcare during the fulfillment crisis impacted by the typhoon Meranti in 2016! Your proven program management capability, excellent leadership support and fast and proactive response helped us mitigate the fulfillment risk and survive from year-end revenue miss. Thanks again for your professional teamwork!"
