Plexus and GE Healthcare Celebrate 30 Year Partnership

NEENAH, WI, July 2, 2013 - Plexus Corp. (NASDAQ: PLXS) and GE Healthcare recognized a significant achievement, celebrating their strategic, 30-year-partnership. Their collaboration generates economic activity across Wisconsin and other communities in which they operate. As GE Healthcare's largest provider of advanced electronics manufacturing and engineering solutions, Plexus supplies high-tech assemblies that power advanced imaging equipment such as magnetic resonance imaging, computed tomography, X-Ray and ultrasound scanners. A new Plexus facility under construction in Neenah, Wis., will be completed in September, and will provide manufacturing solutions to GE Healthcare.

Todd Kelsey, Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer, commented, "Plexus is proud of our 30 years as a strategic supplier to GE Healthcare. The longevity of our partnership is a testament of our ability to successfully deliver growth through customer service excellence on complex products like GE Healthcare's advanced imaging equipment. As one of our first, and now, one of our largest customers, we look forward to continuing to support GE Healthcare with our full Product Realization Value Stream solutions as they provide critical medical technologies across the globe."

Ralph Strosin, General Manager GE Healthcare Global Sourcing, commented, "Our relationship with Plexus has provided us with best-in-class quality products while achieving exceptional service. Plexus' industry leading capabilities and solutions have enhanced our ability to deliver world-class products to the healthcare industry, while delivering operational efficiencies and reducing our expenses. We look forward to continuing our partnership with key suppliers like Plexus in Wisconsin."
