Plexus Expands Engineering Solutions Business to Drive Product Realization

NEENAH, WI – June 12, 2017 - Plexus (NASDAQ: PLXS), a leading engineering, manufacturing and aftermarket services provider, announced the expansion of their Engineering Solutions business. Plexus has increased capacity of the Neenah Design Center by moving to a new office space located in downtown Neenah, Wisconsin and opening a new Engineering Solutions Design Center in Guadalajara, Mexico.

Mike Running, Senior Vice President of Global Engineering Solutions, commented, "Plexus has built a reputation for providing exceptional product development expertise in demanding regulatory environments. We partner with our customers to get their products to market quickly by engaging from the initial stages of ideation all the way through manufacturing and servicing of the end product. Our engineering group currently employs over 500 highly skilled engineers globally, and the expansion of our Neenah Design Center along with the addition of a new design center in Guadalajara enhances our ability to meet growing customer demand."

Plexus has offered full Product Realization services for over 35 years. With the addition of the Guadalajara Design Center, Plexus now has eight engineering Design Centers strategically located across the globe, providing customers with access to the best talent that can support all stages of a product's lifecycle.

To commemorate the expansion, ribbon cutting ceremonies were held at the new Neenah Design Center on June 12, 2017 and at the new Guadalajara Design Center on May 4, 2017. Local government officials, community leaders and Plexus leadership team members participated in the events.
